To Whom It May Concern,

It is my pleasure to recommend Kellie Hall, a dedicated member of The National Society of Collegiate Scholars (NSCS) at American Military University, who joined on March 6, 2025 following a nomination as a member of the top 20% of her class. As a member in good standing, Kellie has exemplified the NSCS pillars of scholarship, leadership, and service, demonstrating excellence and integrity in her academic and professional pursuits.

Kellie is pursuing a Bachelor of Business Administration in Management with a Cybersecurity Certificate, a program that reflects her ability to merge strategic leadership with technical knowledge. Her academic focus, combined with her professional experience, has equipped her with a unique perspective on organizational management, information protection, and critical decision-making, skills that are highly relevant in today's evolving business and technology landscapes.

As someone who works with hundreds of NSCS members every day all over the country, I can say that Kellie Hall stands out to me as a motivated, ethical, and capable individual with diligence and purpose. Her academic focus in management and cybersecurity, combined with her professional experience and service-minded outlook, makes her an asset to any organization or program.

I have no doubt she will continue to uphold the values of excellence and leadership that NSCS represents and offer my support and recommendation. Please let me know if you have any questions by contacting me via email at hankin@nscs.org.

Sincerely,

Holly H. Barclay
